

We demoed a home page, a connection to spotify and an output of the top artists and songs for the user. They are not yet connected to each other but that will be completed within the next few weeks. There was a number of difficulties with aws during development that slowed down progress and our ability to effectively make changes to the project with well practiced version control. The TA suggested that we not overreach with our metrics and visualization and advised we lean heavily into the use of the three.js.
